

Swans

The beautiful creatures,
as white as snow
Far more intelligent
than a crow.

Across the water,
they slowly glide
with their long feathered wings by their side.

The lovely beak
attached onto the small head helps them eat food
like bread

Their pure white feathers glisten in the sun.

By Rosalyn Skinner.